The Office of Compliance, Student Policy, and Judicial Affairs (CSPJA) reports to the Vice President for Student Affairs and serves all three regional campuses of Rutgers (New Brunswick, Newark and Camden). CSPJA's main functions include overseeing University compliance with disability, privacy and nondiscrimination laws as they apply to students and administration of the University Code of Student Conduct. CSPJA also advises and supports all student services and student affairs offices in the development and assessment of student life policies.

Services provided to students by CSPJA include the following:

- ▶ CSPJA administers the student judicial process at the University level and is the office primarily responsible for implementing the University Code of Student Conduct.
- ▶ CSPJA receives and investigates student complaints alleging possible violations of the University's Nondiscrimination Policy including complaints by students with disabilities
- ▶ CSPJA receives and investigates complaints relating to privacy of student records and student information
- ▶ CSPJA will assist students with questions or concerns about university policies relating to student life and services

Services provided to faculty and staff by CSPJA include advising and counseling relative to the student judicial process, providing advice and assistance relative to compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 ("ADA"), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 ("Section 504") and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA") as well as assisting in the review and development of student life policies.
