In conjunction with the Aresty Research Center for Undergraduates, we are seeking to identify research opportunities for undergraduates that are offered by you, your department, or Centers, Bureaus, and Institutes (CBI) under the supervision of individual faculty members. Research projects available to undergraduates can include research funded by external sources, independent research of a faculty member(s), or creative/artistic work supervised by a faculty member(s). We are interested in all types of research experiences open to undergraduates including those connected with volunteer positions, paid positions, internships with a strong research component, and mentored scholarships.

Please complete the template for each identified undergraduate research opportunity in your department or CBI.
